PITTSBURGH CLO IS PREPARING FOR A REVOLUTION!

July 7-19

In 1985, Les Misérables began its journey into musical theater history. The show opened in London on October 8, 1985, and was an instant hit with audiences. The entire run was sold out and moved to the West End two months later. It is currently the longest running show in West End history. In 1986, Les Misérables crossed the pond, premiering at The Kennedy Center in Washington, DC, prior to its New York debut. It opened on Broadway on March 12, 1987, and went on to win 8 Tony® Awards.

Now, for the first time, Pittsburgh CLO audiences will be treated to a locally-staged production featuring musical theater greats reprising their Broadway roles.

CLO favorite ROBERT CUCCIOLI stars as Javert, the role that marked his Broadway debut. Mr. Cuccioli received a Tony® nomination for his performance in the title role of Jekyll and Hyde and is best known to Pittsburgh audiences as the leading man in five recent CLO productions. He's joined by FRED INKLEY as Jean Valjean. Mr. Inkley is making his CLO debut, but is no stranger to the role. He starred as Jean Valjean in the Broadway and National Touring productions of Les Misérables. JACQUELYN PIRO DONOVAN returns to the CLO Stage to reprise her Broadway performance as Fantine. She also appeared on Broadway in Miss Saigon and has performed in five Pittsburgh CLO productions.
